WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 15, 1855.

Four members of the city council have resigned their offices, and elections to fill their places are to be held to-day. We do not know what special reason, if any, three of these gentlemen had for resigning, but our opinion is, that, when men become candidates for office and are elected, they are, as a general rule, under a very strong obligation to remain in office throughout the term for which they are elected. To be sure, if they find themselves utterly unqualified for their duties, or if, in consequence of wholly unexpected events, they find that they cannot retain their offices without the frustration of some important plan of their lives, they ought undoubtedly to resign. But, if men seek office, obtain it, and then, to gratify some freak or whim or passion, abandon their places and put their constituents to the trouble of holding new popular elections, especially in such hot weather as this, they commit an act of flagrant public injustice. It is no reason for resignation that men disapprove some of the doings of the body to which they belong. In seeking and accepting office, they obligate themselves to remain in it and do the best they can in relation to all matters that may come up for their action. What would be thought of members of Congress who should resign on account of the enactment of laws that they could not approve?

We have had no thought, in what we have said, to assert that any of the four gentlemen, who have resigned their places in the council, may not have had good reasons for their course. As for our esteemed friend Dr. Raphael, we know that his reason was a good one. He is a true man and a true patriot.

The Frankfort Yeoman has a letter from Prestonsburg, which sets down the aggregate majority for Clarke in Floyd, Johnson, Pike, Letcher, and Perry at 2,175. This, with a correction of 25 votes in Pulaski, 52 votes in Lawrence, and 5 votes in Muhlenburg in favor of Clarke, and 12 votes in favor of Morehead in Knox, and a majority of 109 for Morehead in Whitley, makes a majority of 4,540 for Morehead in 101 counties. The two counties to hear from gave Scott a majority of 202. We believe, however, the Yeoman's correspondent to be mistaken, as the aggregate vote cast in the five counties in 1852 was only 1512.

P. S.—We understand that a private dispatch from Frankfort, received last night, says that returns from 74 counties official and the remaining counties reported give Morehead a majority of 4,200 in the State.

BOUNTY LAND WARRANTS.—In the case of a female warrantee, a femme covert, twenty years of age, the General Land Office has decided that, if the statute of the State in which her domicile is situated allows females of the age of eighteen to transfer real estate, the local land officers are authorized to permit the warrant to be located in the name of the assignee, upon its being filed at the proper district land office, with an assignment executed by the warrantee and her husband, according to the forms prescribed in the general circular of the 3d of May, 1855, and accompanied by a duly certified copy of the statute aforesaid, with evidence showing the place of domicile.

NEW YORK SIGN.—The Courier learns that one of the most prominent ship builders of that city was engaged, about two weeks ago, in looking about for timbers to use in building a man-of-war for the Russian Government. Since that time he has suspended operations and declines purchasing timber that is offered him. The contract under which the frigate was to be built, required that she should be delivered at a Russian port.

THE AMERICAN SHIP COUNCIL OF KENTUCKY will commence its annual session in this city this morning.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

There were nearly 7 feet water in the canal and 5 feet in the pass on the falls last evening and the river was still rising. The weather yesterday was warm and clear.

The Mississippi was falling at St. Louis on Saturday, and in good navigable condition.

The Telegraph No. 3 is the mailboat for Cincinnati this morning. The Telegraph and Strawn will be laid up on the 1st of next month and their places will be taken by the new steamer Moses McLellan and the City of Wheeling.

The hull of the Fashion has been completely repaired at Paducah, and the F. is to be towed up alternately by the St. Louis packets.

The fine new Green river packet Harrison Bridges, Capt. Austin, leaves on her first trip to-day.

The Castle Garden is up for Pittsburg.

The Sultana passed Memphis yesterday. She is expected to arrive on Friday.

Tellon & Alford, of New Albany, are building a first class steamer for the St. Louis and New Orleans trade for Capt. Carrell.

The steamships Washington and Ariel, which sailed on Saturday from New York for Southampton, carried out $429,870 43 in specie, principally in gold bars, and the steamships Crescent City and Empire City, from Arpinwall, which arrived on the same day from Arpinwall, brought nearly two millions of gold on freight from California.

LAUNCH.—Captain M. Akin's new boat for the Cumberland river is to be launched at four o'clock this evening from the yard of Messrs. Howard, at Jeffersonville.

SHOOTING AT DANVILLE.—A private letter from Danville states that on Monday a Mr. McGinnis was shot and killed by Mr. in that place. No particulars given.

WRECK OF THE AMERICAN SHIP MANCHESTER.—CAPTAIN MURDERED BY THE INDIANS AT CAPE HORN—EIGHTEEN OF THE CREW PERISHED—ONLY TWO SAVED.

ON BOARD MAN-OF-WAR METEORO, }
Don V. B. Martinez, Com., May 25, '55.

The American ship Manchester, of Nantucket, left New York for Valparaiso on the 7th of April, 1854, the complement of hands on board being 17, and the Captain's wife.

On the 28th of August, after having passed Cape Horn, the ship struck on a sunken rock in about lat. 55 S. and to the westward of the Cape, the land being about thirty miles. Not being able to keep her free with the pumps, got the boats out, which were shortly afterwards stove, and afterwards the main-mast cut away.

At 10 o'clock the same night she was full of water, but continued to drift until five in the morning of the 29th, when, after passing a small island, she grounded, and in less than 20 minutes opened in two parts and all on board were immersed in the water. The captain and his wife clung together, but by some chance they got separated, and the captain alone rose to the surface; he immediately seized upon a plank, and succeeded in rescuing his son, on which they drifted to the stern part of the vessel, where they remained until sunset, having concluded they were the only survivors of the ill-fated vessel. They then managed to get ashore on the island, where they found one barrel of bread and another of flour.

Four days after the second mate and one seaman arrived at the island on a raft they had constructed on another island, on which they were cast, distant about two and a half miles. Here we remained while the captain was building a boat. Having all crossed on the raft to the island on which the second mate first landed, where was much of the wreck of the ship and cargo and provisions, on the 3d of November, the second mate died, being completely exhausted.

On the 19th of November we first saw some of the natives, men and three women, having landed from a canoe. We had just finished our boat, and were ready for starting. The Indians having at first received what could be spared to them of our clothes, &c., retired, and afterwards returned with bludgeons, and insisted upon stripping us. Three attacked the captain and three the seaman, who, having disabled two of them, fled to the boat in which the boy already was. Unfortunately the captain received a blow which must have instantly killed him. The boy received two arrows in his jacket, but escaped unhurt. We landed on the island, where part of the wreck still remained; we returned in the evening, and found the captain's body lying naked on the rocks and quite dead. Not daring to remain, we took two barrels of bread and jumped to the wreck. After remaining some days—indeed several days—we ventured along the coast in our boat.

At the end of about six weeks we found the provisions all expended, and subsisted on such shell-fish as we could gather amongst the rocks. After subsisting for some time in this way, a native canoe again hove in sight; being then quite destitute of any means of subsisting for a month at least, except raw shell-fish, we gave ourselves up to the Indians, and, having nothing to excite their cupidity, they behaved very kindly to us, and with them we have remained up to this present time, having never once seen a vessel, until a steamer passed a few days since, but had no communication with her.

I have only to add, that our eternal gratitude is due to the captain of the Meteor, who has not only taken us on board, fed, and clothed us, but in many instances fulfilled the promises made by us to the Indians to induce them to take us on board.

Our ship was called the Manchester, of Nantucket, Captain Alex. Hall Coffin, from New York, bound to Valparaiso, with a cargo of coals and lumber from the firm of Cartwright & Harrison, of New York. Saved—Thos. Edw. Coffin, the captain's son, and Robert Wells, seaman, of Boston.

INTER-OCEANIC SHIP CANAL.—We learn from a reliable source, that some enterprising citizens of the United States and New Grenada have discovered and explored the long sought route for connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans by means of a ship canal. This great desideratum to the commercial world is certainly the most grand and important of this age, and is worthy the attention and consideration of every civilized people and government.

The plan, as we understand it, is to go up the Atrato river some fifty miles from its mouth, with a depth of from six to ten fathoms, and thence to the Pacific, a distance of some sixty miles more, without a single lock or other obstruction in the contemplated canal.

A liberal grant has been made by the Government of New Grenada to the persons engaged in this grand undertaking, and the whole route, from one ocean to the other, has been accurately surveyed and the facts developed are beyond question, so far as the feasibility of the work is concerned.—Wash. Star.

Among the passengers on the steamer Baltic was the Rev. Dr. Peter Parker, who has been twenty years in China, connected with the Mission of the American Board of Missions. Dr. Parker has most of this time been at the head of the Hospital in Canton, in which place he has had extensive intercourse with the people from all parts of the Empire, embracing men of all ranks and stations. Of late years Dr. Parker has been associated with the agencies of our Government in China, and on the return of Mr. McLean was left in charge of the interests of the Government.—N. Y. Jour. of Com.

Information Wanted.—John Stanton, an Irishman, has a son here in Clarksville, Tenn., wishing to find his father. John Stanton left Buena Vista Furnace, Greenup county, Ky., about two months since, and went to Louisville to hunt his son. Any information concerning his father will be attended to at this office. Clarksville Chronicle.

Among the patents granted for the week ending the 7th was one to John Broadbent, of Oak Grove, Ky., for an improvement in looms.

[From this morning's Journal.]

PORTLAND, ME., Aug. 14.—A mass Republican Convention was held here to-day. Senators Hale and Bell, of New Hampshire, Wade, of Ohio, and Butler, of New York, were among the speakers.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14.—Winston is elected Governor of Alabama by a large majority.

The American party carried the election for Judge of the Second District Court in this city yesterday, by a majority of 1,250 over all.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 14.

The Whig Convention of Allegheny county met to-day, and resolved to make no nominations, as such action would be controlled by the Know Nothings. It was also resolved that as offers of fusion were rejected by the Democratic party, the Whigs would now co-operate with the Republican movement.

The following delegates were appointed to the Whig State Convention, which meets on the 11th Sept.—Capt. Edw. Campbell, &c.

The delegates were recommended to favor the Republican organization.

A resolution was also adopted approving of Reed's letter of resignation after his appointment to the County Committee.

Convention adjourned.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.

A meeting to initiate a fusion of the anti-administration feeling in this State with a new Republican organization will be held here on Thursday next. Some of the ablest men of all parties will be present, including Samuel Hoar, Senator Rockwell, Chas. Sumner, Gov. Boutwell, Mr. Banks, H. W. Cushman, and other leading spirits of the Free soil party, the Know-Somethings, the old Democratic and Whig parties.

The steamer Kate Swinney has been sunk on the upper Missouri. She was loaded with furs and peltries belonging to the American Fur Co. The boat is a total loss.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14.

The deed of lease of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad was executed yesterday to George W. Jenks for 15 years. The lease includes all the real and personal property of the company and the right to collect toll. The road will be put in motion as soon as the indebtedness along the line is paid off.

AFFAIRS OF MEXICO.—General Wheat, a passenger by the steamer from the Isthmus, reports that the insurgents in Mexico were carrying everything before them. We have heard as much from other sources; but the General, who has filled a station of responsibility in the revolutionary party, bears a testimony of new and convincing weight. According to his accounts, the reports we have received of the successes of the insurgents in the North have rather been less than the truth than beyond it; the whole of the Northern States have fallen into their hands, and in all the country north of the mountains Santa Anna has not a single adherent. From the North they have spread to the West, and overrun Zacatecas and Guanajuato, as well as Jalisco and Michoacan. The roads through these States are so completely under their control that the news of the capture of Monterey by the rebels of the North was brought straight through to Acapulco by a courier in the ordinary course of post. The only places which still hold out for Santa Anna are the capital and a few towns in the Eastern and Southern States.

That he will, in this pressure of circumstances, avail himself of the first promising opportunity to retire from his onerous position and fall back upon the delights of private life, seems highly probable. It is generally understood that a house in this city has been leased with a view to its being occupied by him in the event of his arrival here. It has also been remarked that one of the President's last acts was to appoint his father-in-law minister to Washington. Of course, in the event of a flight from the country, his family would thus be safe, and the house of the Mexican minister would afford a secure and honorable refuge.

It is said that the intention of the new party in Mexico—the insurgents, led by Alvarez and his set—is to choose for President Cevallos, ex-Chief-Justice, who is now in France. Cevallos, it will be remembered, filled for a short time, in virtue of his office of the First Judicial dignitary in the country, the position of President, and gave general satisfaction. When Santa Anna last returned to power, Cevallos went into opposition with the other honest Mexicans, and the Dictator, having vainly endeavored to mollify the Chief Justice by an offer of his new Order of the Guadalupe, which was indignantly refused, exiled him from the country. Cevallos came here, and spent some time in the United States, studying our institutions and the political working of our system. On leaving here he went to France, where he still remains. It is understood that Cevallos is in favor of applying to Mexico counterparts of the United States institutions, and that he does not believe in any degree that the Mexican people are unfit for liberty. Should he be chosen President, the Mexicans would at all events have a fair trial.

A young and rather pretty girl, named Jane Gunsborough, came to this country from Scotland some time since, but not finding suitable employment, determined to return to her native land. Walking one evening on the Battery she was accosted by a person calling himself William Brown, to whom, after some conversation, she confided her situation; whereupon he offered to assist her, and said if she went with him to Albany he would procure her a good situation. The girl believed him, and the same evening they started for Albany. The girl paid for Brown's passage and supper, but refused his solicitations to hand over her money for safe keeping. On arriving at Albany, Brown started out and went to the police office, and swore that the girl had stolen $27 from him. The girl was brought up but proved the charge false, and was discharged. This is the worst attempt a black mail we have heard of for some time.

INQUEST No. 120.—Was held yesterday evening about two miles below Portland on the body of Jacob Auer, a German shoemaker, who was a resident of Portland. He, with several others, went into the river on Sunday last for the purpose of bathing and was accidentally drowned. Verdict accordingly.

The deceased has a sister living in or near Cincinnati. W. LEE WHITE, Coroner.

DEATHS BY YELLOW FEVER.—We know of no man whose afflictions have been more severe, and who has had greater cause to bewail the devastating effects of this besom of destruction, than Mr. Mills B. Godwin, one of the compositors in the Dispatch office. Two weeks since, the father, mother, aunt, sister, brother, brother-in-law, nephew, and cousin of Mr. Godwin were all living in Gosport, doing well and enjoying good health. When the news reached this city that the yellow fever had made its appearance in that town, he consoled himself with the hope that the report was founded on an isolated case, carried there by some vessel, and knowing that his friends were temperate, prudent people, felt but little uneasiness for their safety. His feelings may be better imagined than described, when, a few days after, the telegraph brought the heartrending news that his brother, Frederick A. Godwin, in the bloom of youth and with worldly prospects the most flattering, had been seized by the scourge and hastened from time into eternity. Mr. Godwin impatiently awaited the dispatch on the following day, on the arrival of which he learned that his brother-in-law, Mr. P. E. Glenn, had also fallen a prey to the fever.

On the next day he learned that his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth R. Glen, and her infant child, had been stricken down by the same unrelenting enemy. The fourth victim was his cousin, Mrs. Amelia Jones. Then fell his aunt, Mrs. Mary B. Drewry—who, in turn, was speedily followed by her son, Arthur Drewry, a lad about six years old. All were now gone save his mother and father, and a faint hope began to dawn on the mind's horizon that Death had satiated his appetite and would spare them; but that hope was only momentary, for the next news that came informed Mr. Godwin that his father, Mr. A. H. Godwin, had fallen a prey to the disease. Heart-rending as was the agony created by this last message, ere he received it, another and a more agonizing one told him that his mother, Mrs. Eliza S. K. F. Godwin, was no more.—Richmond Dispatch.

HORRIBLE AND FATAL CASUALTY.—An elderly lady named Mrs. Ackerman, came to her death on Saturday in the following horrible manner:

Mrs. Ackerman resided on Mrs. Bailey's farm, in St. Clair township, near this city. On Saturday morning her son was serving his city customers with milk, and the other members of the family were in the field harvesting. Upon returning about 9 o'clock, the son discovered his mother lying on the ground dismembered, and life extinct. The bull was near the house, and manifested no fierceness, though the blood on his horns indicated too plainly the horrible manner in which the unfortunate woman came to her death.

Mrs. Ackerman was over sixty years of age.

EVENING BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, AUG. 15, 1885.

FAIRS IN KENTUCKY.—We have received most of the premium lists giving the time and place of holding the local fairs in Kentucky the coming fall. To our friends who have so promptly responded to our request in this matter we tender our thanks, and particularly to Master D. Beal Waggoner, of Danville, who forwards us the premium list of the Central Kentucky Stock and Agricultural Association, and in a note states that he is neither the president nor secretary of the Association, but a boy 13 years old. If he is not president, he will one day, if he lives, deserve to be president.

THE ELECTION OF COUNCILMEN.—Many of our citizens seem to be unaware that an election of one councilman takes place in the Fourth ward to-day, and of two in the First ward. We understand that very few votes indeed have been polled. The people should remember that it is of great importance to have good councilmen and should act accordingly. If the elective franchise is worth having, it is worth using.

CHOLERA AT FLEMINGSBURG.—A letter from Flemingsburg, under date of the 10th instant, says in a postscript: "In the last two weeks we have had in our town and vicinity over thirty deaths from cholera, and this morning seven cases which cannot recover. Two-thirds of the citizens have left town. Weather damp and cloudy. Our doctors very unlucky. But one or two cases saved."

The Cleveland Herald says that President Pierce will be in that city on Thursday en route for Lake Superior.

NEWS ITEMS.

Republic of Liberia.—Advices received by the Baltic by Mr. Coppinger, of the Colonization Office at Philadelphia, state that a treaty of amity, commerce, and navigation was signed on the 29th of May last, in London, by Gerald Ralston, Esq., as plenipotentiary pro vice of the Liberian republic, and the Chevalier de Colquhoun, plenipotentiary of the Hanseatic League republics of Lubec, Hamburg, and Bremen. The treaty is announced to be similar to the one made with Great Britain. The independence of Liberia is now acknowledged by the eight governments of Great Britain, France, Prussia, Belgium, Brazil, Lubec, Hamburg, and Bremen, and Mr. Ralston expresses the confident hope, that, before many months have expired, the same act will have been followed by two more European powers.

T. C. Ferguson was committed to jail in Collinsville, Ill., on Friday last, charged with uttering counterfeit money on the Southern Bank of Kentucky. A large gang of counterfeiters are supposed to be organized in Illinois, and Collinsville has been selected as one point from which to operate.

Mons. Godard made another successful balloon ascension at St. Louis on Saturday.

The New York Courier says that the liquor shops are again kept open on the Sabbath, and the law is entirely disregarded.

A Sad Tale.—A man named Barnabas Bates, picked up in our streets in a state of intoxication, tells a sorry story of his life. He says, twelve years since, he was the possessor of a fortune of $20,000, and was surrounded by a happy family. He then resided near Utica. He was tempted to purchase a lottery-ticket, and now his wife, children, and farm are all gone. His wife is in her grave, his children married and settled away from him, and his farm squandered for lottery-tickets. He expressed to Chief Morgan entire indifference to his fate, for all his property was gone, and life was indifferent to him. "Yet," said he, "I blame no one; it was all my own fault; I brought it on myself; I am 66 years old, and have not much longer to stay." The old man's sad experience has a lesson for those who listen to it.—Alb. Reg.

CARRIED THE JOKE A LITTLE TOO FAR.—The Toronto (Canada) Patriot says:

Two Americans, on Wednesday morning last, wishing to secure a free passage from London to Niagara, received a small bounty, and enlisted to serve in the foreign legion. They were furnished with free tickets through to Niagara, and immediately left on the cars for that place; but the recruiting officer, hearing of their intention to stop at Paris, take the Buffalo and Brantford railway, and get their passage free to the "land of liberty," gave notice to the conductor by telegraph to keep an eye to the gentlemen. When at Paris, they attempted to carry out their designs, but were arrested and taken on. Probably they will see Sebastopol before they return. They were respectable in appearance, but carried the joke a little too far.

STEAMBOAT ACCIDENTS.—The St. Louis Republican has the following:

Steamer Kate Swinney Sunk.—The officers of the steamer F. X. Aubrey, from St. Joseph yesterday morning, bring intelligence of the sinking of the steamer Kate Swinney in the Missouri river, at the foot of Vermilion, 300 miles above Council Bluffs.

The Kate Swinney was one of the boats chartered by Government to carry stores up the Missouri, and had been to Fort Pierre, her destination, discharged her cargo, and was returning, without freight, when the accident occurred. She struck a stump or snag, which tore away nearly the whole bottom of the hull, and sunk in thirty feet water in about five minutes. The officers and crew made their escape in the yawl and life-boat, but lost nearly the whole of their baggage, which had been placed in the ladies' cabin. The sinking was so sudden that nothing could be saved from the wreck. The Kate Swinney was valued at $20,000, and insured in offices in this city for $15,000. She was owned by Captain Choteau, her commander, and Mr. Ash. Hopkins, clerk. Captain Choteau sold the wreck before he left for $300 to a party of emigrants, who were building a village near the spot where she sunk, and who immediately commenced the operation of wrecking.

Steamer Ben West Sunk.—The steamer Ben West, bound for Weston, struck a snag and sunk in the Missouri river, near Washington, last Friday evening. She lies in about ten feet water, and being an old boat, will be a total loss. She was loaded principally with lumber. When the F. X. Aubrey passed her there were two barges alongside, taking out the cargo. The Ben West was probably worth $5,000, and was owned by Mr. Hackelrhodes. We learn that there was no insurance on the boat.

PARIS SUMMER FASHIONS.—The Paris correspondent of the Journal of Commerce furnishes the following important intelligence from and for the fashionable world:

Fancy straw bonnets embroidered with black velvet, are much worn. Those fashioned by our favorite, modiste, Montelgaly, 5 Boulevard des Capucines, have frequently a large tuft of wild poppies at the edge of the front outside and another inside.

The fashionable milliners contrive to make bonnets very small; the bonnets are rolled at the cheeks, and come rather far on the top of the head; around the face is a profusion of flowers and blonde, sometimes imitations of fruit, especially cherries. Pretty bonnets are composed of light green silks, and covered with a lace apprit in the Marie Stuart style—a torsade of green ribbon goes round the crown, and finishes behind in a bow mixed with a lace barbe. At the edge of the crown are placed two cintres of taffetas, on which is sewed an ornament of aloes. The top of the crown is covered by a round piece of transparent aloes; the curtain is of light green taffetas, and edged with a lace which turns in and covers the inside of the front. On each side of the bonnet is a green and gray feather placed in the opposite direction.—Inside are blonde ruches and rosebuds.

With airy summer toilettes the jewelry should be of the lightest description. Sarrazin, 19 Boulevard St. Denis, mounts numbers of pures in coral—the fashionable ornament of the summer season. The bracelets of coral are massive, wind round the arm several times, and have pendants of coral cameos. Sevigne bracelets and breast-pins are in good taste.

The fashion of gentlemen's clothes undergoes but little change whatever may be the diversity in female attire; the darkest colors and the plainest make are the most in vogue. The light summer clothes are much employed by Maubrac, 22 Boulevard Montmartre, for morning promenades; the color of the coat is burnt coffee; the front is buttoned very high; the sleeves are of a moderate width; the wristbands made without buttons or button-boles, and wide enough to admit the hands when they are elongated. The shawl-form waistcoat is of plain, dark-green silk, an inch longer than the coat in front.

INDIAN WAR IN NEBRASKA.—THE MILITIA ORDERED OUT.—The Nebraskan of the 1st inst., published in Omaha City, the new seat of Government of Nebraska, is filled with articles of a decidedly warlike character. The Governor of the Territory has called out a portion of the volunteers of the First Brigade, and the whole Territory seems to be excited and alarmed.

The immediate cause of these military movements was the murder of George Demaree and Jackson Porter, and the inflicting of a severe wound upon the person of Mrs. Porter, near Fontenelle, by a band of Sioux Indians. This occurred on the 29th ult., and the Nebraskan gives the following account of it on the authority of Mrs. Porter.

Demaree and Porter, during the week, had been out on Bell creek, about four miles below Fontenelle, engaged in breaking prairie. The wife of Mr. Porter accompanied her husband to do the cooking for the party. On Saturday evening they set out to go to Fontenelle to spend the Sabbath, but were overtaken by a thunderstorm which came up suddenly that evening, and in consequence of the darkness were obliged to camp when within about one mile of Fontenelle.

The party remained in camp until about 10 o'clock on the following morning, when hearing the report of a gun in the vicinity of a small lake near by, and thinking some of their Fontenelle friends were there in search of game, Demaree and Porter started in that direction. They had proceeded but a short distance when they were met by a party of some fifteen Sioux Indians, who at first appeared friendly and shook hands with them; but suddenly one of the Indians approached Demaree and Porter, killing them both instantly. Mrs. Porter, who was close by, rushed to the prostrate body of her husband, when an Indian struck her with a spear, wounding her severely in the hip. How she escaped with her life, she does not know, but certain it is that she made her way to Fontenelle and gave the alarm. The citizens immediately rallied, but before they could reach the scene of the outrage, the savages had made good their retreat, taking with them the scalp of Demaree, and the tent and camp fixtures of their victims.

Information of this affair was immediately communicated to Governor Izard by a committee of citizens appointed for the purpose; and the Governor forthwith issued orders to Gen. Thayer, of the first brigade Nebraska militia, requiring him to raise a volunteer company of forty effective men, in addition to the first company of Nebraska volunteers, to take a position at some eligible point near Fontenelle, in Dodge county, to protect the lives and property of the settlers from further aggression, until relieved by an adequate force of the United States troops.

The citizens of Omaha City, and other points to which the news soon spread, immediately volunteered their services, and a company of men, mounted and in wagons, and equipped as well as circumstances permitted, were soon under way to Fontenelle. It is said not to be the intention to pursue the Indians, but to act on the defensive. Gov. Izard has communicated the facts to the Government, and it is expected that an adequate military force will be at once ordered to the Territory.

Gen. Thayer returned to Omaha City, from Fontenelle, on the 2d of August, and reported that the volunteers were stationed at Fontenelle for the present, and were constantly on the alert; that another military post would be immediately established at Tekamah, with the intention of keeping up a constant communication from that place to the mouth of Horn river, thus guarding the entire frontier. The Omaha Indians have also agreed to co-operate with the Nebraskans in defending the frontier—thinking this, doubtless, a very good opportunity to avenge themselves on their ancient enemy—the Sioux.

The same paper gives an account of the disastrous result of a late expedition of the Omaha Indians. To the number of 200 warriors, they left their new home at Black-Bird Hills on a buffalo hunt, intending to be gone until the first of September, but, on reaching the head of the Horn river, they met a band of Sioux Indians, by whom two of their men were killed. They then changed their course, striking across to Beaver creek, a tributary of the Loup Fork, about two hundred miles from Omaha City, in a direction little north of west. Here they found an abundance of buffalo, and the hunt had commenced, when, on the second day, they were suddenly surprised by about 500 Indians belonging to the Laramie Sioux, with some Cheyennes and Arapahoes.

A fierce conflict ensued—the Omahas repulsed their assailants, losing in the encounter three killed and two wounded. Logan Fontenelle, chief of the Omahas, was in advance of his men when the surprise took place—his retreat was cut off, and he was found next day twelve miles from camp, his scalp taken and his body pierced with three bullets and five arrows. The earth around him was stained with blood, and there were other evidences that he had been engaged in a desperate conflict, and sold his life as dearly as possible.

The Lexington Observer announces that the cholera has totally disappeared, and the health of the city is perfectly restored. The health of the Lunatic Asylum is also re-established—not a case of cholera having occurred there for the last ten days.

ATTACK BY CATTLE ON A RED WAGON.—The following is an extract from one of Col. Claiborne's letters from the pine woods of Mississippi, published in the New Orleans Delta:

I set out for Augusta, bowling merrily along in a blood red buggy. The road is beautiful, roofed over with trees and vines, and the air fragrant with the breath of flowers. There was only one drawback—the myriads of flies of every species that swarmed around and ravenously cupped the blood from the ears, neck, and flanks of my horse. It is what is appropriately termed here "fly-time"; that is to say, the period when this numerous family of scourges have it all their own way, and neither man nor beast can venture into the woods with impunity. Now the "cattle from a thousand hills," and even the wild deer, seek the abodes of men, and huddle around some smoking pine, or stand in some open field to escape their periodical tormentors. On a sudden curve of the road, I found myself in one of these "stamping grounds," and a simultaneous roar from five hundred infuriated animals gave notice of my danger. It is well known that the Spanish matadores provoke the wounded bulls of the arena by flaunting the moleta or blood red flag before them. It was the color of my equipage that excited this bellying herd. They snuffed the air, planted their heads near the ground, tore up the earth with their hoofs and horns, and glared at me with savage eyes. The fierce phalanx blocked the road, and the part of discretion was to retreat. The moment I wheeled, the pursuit commenced. A cloud of dust enveloped them, and their tramping feet was like the roll of thunder. My horse dashed forward, frantic with terror, and on the y-plunged, on every side crushing down everything in their course, goring and tumbling over each other, filling the woods with their dreadful cries, and gathering nearer and nearer in the fearful chase.

The contest now became desperate. In five minutes we should have been overturned and trampled to death; but at this juncture I threw out my overcoat, and, with an awful clamor, they paused to fight over it, and tear it into shreds. Driving at full speed, I tossed out a cushion; the infuriated devils trampled it into atoms, and came rushing on, their horns clashing against the buggy, and ripping up the ribs of my horse. At this fearful moment we were providentially saved. A monstrous oak, with a forked top, had fallen near the road, and into this I plunged my horse breast high, and he was safe, the back of the buggy being then the only assailable point. At this the whole column made a dash, but I met the foremost with six discharges from a revolver; two bottles of Sewell Taylor's best were shivered in their faces; next, a cold turkey, and finally a bottle of Scotch snuff—the last shot in the locker. This did the business. Such a sneezing and bellowing was never heard before; and the one that got it put out with the whole troop at his heels, circling round, scenting the blood that had been spilled, and shaking the earth with their thundering tramp. I was now fairly in for it, and made up my mind to remain until sunset, when they would disperse, as in "fly time" cattle graze at night. I was relieved, however, by the approach of some cattle drivers, who, galloping up on shaggy but muscular horses, and with whips 20 feet long, which they manage with surprising dexterity, soon drove the herd to their "cow-pens," for the purpose of marking and branding. This is done every year in "fly time." The cattle ranging, scattered, thirty miles round, are now easily found, collected at their stamping grounds, and are driven to a common pen or pound, where the respective owners assemble and put their marks and brands on the increase of the season. Thus this Egyptian plague is turned to a useful purpose.

MATRIMONIAL INFIDELITY.—SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY.—We have in the following case, reported by the Rochester Union, a fair exhibition of the fruits of sensual philosophy inculcated in "Mary Linden":

A somewhat singular case came up at the police office yesterday. A man about forty-five years of age, named Patten, was brought up, charged with deserting his family, his wife appearing as the complainant. The family consisted of the wife and three children, one an infant. The wife stated that Patten had left her without support, and was cohabiting with another female, somewhat her junior. Patten did not deny that he had ceased to live with his wife, and had taken to his bosom another woman; but he attempted to show that his conduct had been proper. He then went on to state that many years since—when first married—he and his wife lived together in harmony, because their views on spiritual matters coincided. He said, when the second advent doctrine—which the vulgar called Millerism—was preached, he and his wife both embraced the faith of the Saviour. In later years, he became convinced that the seventh instead of the first day of the week was the Sabbath, and on this point his wife harmonized and all went on smoothly.

About a year ago, a question came up as to the resurrection, and on this point they could not agree. He concluded, after closely consulting his Bible, that the resurrection was only a spiritual one. His wife insisted that the body was to be raised also. Here there was an irreconcilable difference, and one that Patten thought was sufficient to lead to a separation. He said he could not live with a woman who did not harmonize with him in his views on spiritual matters, and bad, therefore, forsaken his wife, and found a female who thought as he did on this point. Here the wife, who had listened to his statement very patiently, interrupted him by saying that she thought the newly found female agreed with him quite as well on carnal as on spiritual matters.

Patten said that could not be shown by evidence, and went on with his narrative, concluding by asserting that there must be harmony on spiritual things between man and wife to enable them to live together. He said he would not live with a woman who did not think as he did on religious questions.

The magistrate required him to give bail for the maintenance of his wife and children, and threatened him with another kind of punishment if he violated the law in order to live in "spiritual harmony" with a woman not his wife.

It may be gratifying to our readers to learn that our late townsman J. T. Hart, sculptor, of Florence, Italy, has the statue (for the ladies of Virginia) of Mr. Clay in a state of rapid progress. Also, that he has shipped on a vessel from the port of Lephorn three of his finest marble busts—Gov. Crittenden, Gen. Taylor, and Robert Wickliffe, Esq.—his latest and best productions, much lauded in Europe for their exquisite finish and exceeding merit as works of art. Visitors as well as letter-writers speak of his works as being more faithful to nature and more exquisite in details of likeness than any other artist now in Europe.—Lex. Obs.

Mary Lyndon, or Revelations of a Life.

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY. In one duodecimo volume, neatly bound in cloth. Price $1.

THE author of this interesting American novel is among the most intellectual of living writers. It requires the genius of the author to have grasped the irresistible force, the scenes and circumstances through which her story moves. No other writer could have thrown as strong an individual life into place and locality. Her passionate fearless nature, her wild warm heart, are transfused into the magic world she has created, with such an intense earnestness, when one can enter with her into the life of the characters, one feels as if one were actually living the life of the characters.

The characters introduced into the story are fresh and new, and the graphic life and color of the story are such as to give it a reality and interest equalled by no other production since the appearance of the "Gentle Letter" and "Jane Eyre." It is a "more talked about than any other novel of our time."

HAYES, CRAIG, & CO.

THE ONLY COMBINATION OF COMFORT AND ELEGANCE in the way of Hats is that superb dress Beaver made by HAYES, CRAIG, & CO., and upon which they took the premium at the World's Fair. While it is the most elegant dress Hat of the season, it is as light and airy as the goosehair.

LATEST NEWS.

We have been informed that a number of unprincipled persons are endeavoring to play upon the sympathy of our citizens and obtain money from them upon the plea that they have been rendered destitute by the recent riots. Very few of those who are really sufferers have made any efforts to bring their wants to public notice in this manner, and it has already been ascertained that many impostors are busily engaged in making a profit for themselves by such appeals, when they were not in any way injured by the riots.

We understand that Col. Wm. Duerson, one of the guardians of the alms house and also a member of the Relief and Employment Association, has undertaken to procure a list of all the sufferers by the riots and the extent of their losses, and that relief will be afforded to those who actually require it. It is proper that this matter should be brought to the notice of our citizens, and that they should be on their guard against undeserving impostors.

The Governor of Kentucky has offered a reward of four hundred dollars for the apprehension and delivery to the jailor of Fayette county, of John L. Jackson, who is charged by indictment with the murder of George W. Smith, of Garrard county, and who escaped from the jail at Lexington on the 5th of this month.

OHIO AND MISSISSIPPI RAILROAD.—The directory of this road has leased it for fifteen years to Geo. W. Jenks, of St. Louis. Mr. Jenks binds himself to put the road in first rate condition for business, and to keep and maintain it in that condition during the full term of the lease. He is to fence and ballast the road. During the next five years, he is to expend at least $500,000 in rolling stock and structures for the road; and he is to pay semi-annually, the interest on the first and second mortgage bonds issued by the company. After the expiration of the first five years, he is to pay to the company, in addition to what is named, the sum of $25,000 per annum. And at the expiration of the lease he is to surrender to the company all that he has added to the property of the road without paying therefor. These are the leading provisions of the contract.

A funny scene occurred at the Cincinnati mailboat this morning. A German girl, about 18 years of age, who had taken deck passage, was standing on the planks leading from the steamer to the wharf-boat. To make room for persons that were passing, she stepped back and off the plank, falling into the river backward. Her clothes kept her head above the water until a plank was thrown to her, around which she twined her hands and legs, which position gave her an aspect that caused roars of laughter in the crowd. She was got out without sustaining any injury.

The steamer Dan Convers has been sold to a Rock Island company for $8,500.

George H. Ashton, of New Albany, has contracted with Chris. Tilson for a new boat for the New Orleans trade.

We are indebted to the steamer Northern for favors.

John Murphy and Wm. Brown, assault on Geo. Burge on the day of the election. Mr. Burge appeared in court and testified that he was going up Market street, and when near Hancock an Irishman threw a brickbat at him. He pursued him up Hancock, when a crowd came out of a yard and hallooed "Here comes a watchman; let's kill him." They threw brickbats at him, and all, about eleven, struck him. One man had a knife. He dealt several blows, and recognises the two accused as being in the crowd, especially Murphy, who is defective in the eye. After they had knocked him down, one said "let's cut his throat." Another said "he is dead."

Louisa Bryant says that on the morning of the election John Murphy, who resides in the same house with her, wanted to borrow a knife. He said that he was hurt at the last election, and he was bound to hurt some one this election. She saw Murphy after the fight come running across the street, and he hugged her and another girl and told them "not to tell." While John was standing by them, some one in the crowd which was pursuing him struck Murphy. He then went home and had the blood washed off from him.

Ann Stone saw Murphy strike and stab a man, and then ran. Two men who were standing close by her struck Murphy as he passed by. One of the men said "kill the damn Irish."

Accused were remanded and case continued till to-morrow to procure testimony on the part of the defense.
